The series “Lecture Notes in Networks and Systems” publishes the latest developments in Networks and Systems—quickly, informally and with high quality. Original research reported in proceedings and post-proceedings represents the core of LNNS.

Volumes published in LNNS embrace all aspects and subfields of, as well as new challenges in, Networks and Systems.

The series contains proceedings and edited volumes in systems and networks, spanning the areas of Cyber-Physical Systems, Autonomous Systems, Sensor Networks, Control Systems, Energy Systems, Automotive Systems, Biological Systems, Vehicular Networking and Connected Vehicles, Aerospace Systems, Automation, Manufacturing, Smart Grids, Nonlinear Systems, Power Systems, Robotics, Social Systems, Economic Systems and other. Of particular value to both the contributors and the readership are the short publication timeframe and the world-wide distribution and exposure which enable both a wide and rapid dissemination of research output.

The series covers the theory, applications, and perspectives on the state of the art and future developments relevant to systems and networks, decision making, control, complex processes and related areas, as embedded in the fields of interdisciplinary and applied sciences, engineering, computer science, physics, economics, social, and life sciences, as well as the paradigms and methodologies behind them.

Indexed by SCOPUS, INSPEC, WTI Frankfurt eG, zbMATH, SCImago.

All books published in the series are submitted for consideration in Web of Science.

For proposals from Asia please contact Aninda Bose (aninda.bose@springer.com).

Welcome Message from AINA-2022 Organizers

Welcome to the 36th International Conference on Advanced Information Networking and Applications (AINA-2022). On behalf of AINA-2022 Organizing Committee, we would like to express to all participants our cordial welcome and high respect.

AINA is an international forum, where scientists and researchers from academia and industry working in various scientific and technical areas of networking and distributed computing systems can demonstrate new ideas and solutions in distributed computing systems. AINA was born in Asia, but it is now an international conference with high quality thanks to the great help and cooperation of many international friendly volunteers. AINA is a very open society and is always welcoming international volunteers from any country and any area in the world.

AINA International Conference is a forum for sharing ideas and research work in the emerging areas of information networking and their applications. The area of advanced networking has grown very rapidly, and the applications have experienced an explosive growth especially in the area of pervasive and mobile applications, wireless sensor networks, wireless ad-hoc networks, vehicular networks, multimedia computing and social networking, semantic collaborative systems, as well as grid, P2P, IoT, big data, and cloud computing. This advanced networking revolution is transforming the way people live, work, and interact with each other and is impacting the way business, education, entertainment, and health care are operating. The papers included in the proceedings cover theory, design, and application of computer networks, distributed computing, and information systems.

Each year AINA receives a lot of paper submissions from all around the world. It has maintained high-quality accepted papers and is aspiring to be one of the main international conferences on the information networking in the world.

We are very proud and honored to have two distinguished keynote talks by Prof. Mario A. R. Dantas, University of Juiz de Fora, Minas Gerais, Brazil, and Prof. Isaac Woungang, Ryerson University, Toronto, Ontario, Canada, who will present their recent work and will give new insights and ideas to the conference participants.

An international conference of this size requires the support and help of many people. A lot of people have helped and worked hard to produce a successful AINA-2022 technical program and conference proceedings. First, we would like to thank all authors for submitting their papers, the session chairs, and distinguished keynote speakers. We are indebted to program track co-chairs, program committee members and reviewers, who carried out the most difficult work of carefully evaluating the submitted papers.

We would like to thank AINA-2022 General Co-chairs, PC Co-chairs, and Workshops Co-chairs for their great efforts to make AINA-2022 a very successful event. We have special thanks to Finance Chair and Web Administrator Co-chairs.

We do hope that you will enjoy the conference proceedings and readings.

AINA-2022 Keynote Talks

Data Intensive Scalable Computing in Edge/Fog/Cloud Environments

Mario A. R. Dantas

University of Juiz de Fora, Minas Gerais, Brazil

Abstract. In this talk are presented and discussed some aspects related to the adoption of data intensive scalable computing (DISC) paradigm considering the new adoption trend of edge/fog/cloud environments. These contemporaneous scenarios are very relevant for all organizations in a world where billion of IoT and IIoT devices are being connected, and an unprecedented amount of digital data is generated. Therefore, they require special processing and storage.

Resource Management in 5G Cloudified Infrastructure: Design Issues and Challenges

Isaac Woungang

Ryerson University, Toronto, Canada

Abstract. 5G and Beyond (B5G) networks will be featured by a closer collaboration between mobile network operators (MNOs) and cloud service providers (CSPs) to meet the communication and computational requirements of modern mobile applications and services in a mobile cloud computing (MCC) environment. In this talk, we enlighten the marriage between the heterogeneous wireless networks (HetNets) and the multiple clouds (termed as InterCloud) for a better resource management in B5G networks. First, we start with an overview of the building blocks of HetNet and InterCloud, and then we describe the resource managers in both domains. Second, the key design criteria and challenges related to interoperation between the InterCloud and HetNet are described. Third, the state-of-the-art security-aware resource allocation mechanisms for a multi-cloud orchestration over a B5G networks are enlighten.

Abstract. Smart meters have been widely used in smart homes to provide efficient monitoring and billing to consumers. While providing customers with usage information at the device level can lead to energy savings, modern smart meters can only provide useful data for the whole house with low accuracy. Therefore, machine learning applied to the problem of energy disaggregation has gained wide attention. In this paper, an intelligent and optimized recurrent Long Short-Term Memory (LSTM) reinforcement Q-learning technique was evaluated on a large-scale household energy use dataset for Non-Intrusive Load Monitoring (NILM). Our proposed model can maximize energy disaggregation performance and is able to predict new observations from previous ones. The design of such a deep learning model for energy disaggregation is examined in the universal REDD smart meter dataset and compared to reference model. The experimental results demonstrate that the accuracy of the energy prediction in terms of accuracy was significantly improved in 99% of cases after using LSTM-based reinforcement Q learning, compared to the deep learning approach TFIDF-DAE [1] with an accuracy of 85%.

1 Introduction

Technological advances and the growing interest of new generations for investment in household appliances are leading to an increase in sales of modern appliances and their integration into our daily life. Home Energy Management manages the use of electricity in smart homes [2]. The variation in electricity production costs depends on changing the timing of consumption rather than the amount of energy consumed. In this case, savings on electricity consumption bills can be achieved by scheduling the load on a timescale to reduce energy demand
