Foreword

I am no theologian. I am by no means a missionary. I am merely recounting personal experiences, which may be taken as a simple narrative. I am at liberty to think critically in this area of tension between religion and my experiences.

We live, thank God, in a time when freedom of faith and conscience protects all those who dare to leave the rigid boundaries set by religions. And so, I am able to freely share my experiences that led me naturally to my beautiful faith.
