A photograph of a classical building facade featuring several statues. In the foreground, a large statue of St. Peter is shown from the chest up, holding a large key in his right hand and a book in his left. Behind him, on a higher level of the facade, are three more statues. The statue on the left is also holding a key and has a halo. The statue in the middle is holding a cross. The statue on the right is standing and holding a staff. The building has ornate carvings and a balcony with a balustrade.
