Acknowledgements

Thanks to:

Lisa Spirling, Andrew Shepherd, Steve Harper and all at Theatre503 for their dedication in creating this opportunity and making it all happen, and to the panel of judges for reading my work and inspiring me with theirs.

Philip, Chris and all at the Richard Carne Trust for their kindness. The Jerwood Charitable Foundation and Arvon for supporting new writers with their Mentoring Fellowships and specifically the guidance and friendship of David Eldridge, Cathy Thomas and Caroline Gray.

James Grieve for championing me, The Peggy Ramsay Foundation for scooping a man up when he was down, and Mel Kenyon for screaming my name from the rooftops.

All those who have read and commented on this script at various stages.

The cast and crew for climbing on-board with me, my family for already being there, and especially Vicky and Archer: the journey to whom inspired so much.

A.T.

*For Graeme,
Who shared the start of the story.*

Note on the Play

The play takes place between 1969-2056.

Unless specifically stated, all scenes occur in a small northern English village.

The play consists of a Prologue and Parts One and Two, containing multiple scenes. New scenes are indicated by () .

If this break is not used between scenes of differing time periods then they should be allowed to flow through each other.

Some way of displaying the year to the audience is recommended.

A forward slash (/) at the end of a line indicates overlapping speech.
