

On a sunny morning, as White Town celebrates its annual town-building day, Emma is directing the ants to pick up flowers and decorate the streets.

Emma carefully placed the ant eggs pushed by the soliders in frong of the statue, clasped her hands, and prayed to the ant god to bless the children's happy growth.

