

LEARNING MADE EASY

5th Edition

U.S. History

for
dummies®
A Wiley Brand

WITH ONLINE PRACTICE

Find FREE chapter
quizzes online

Recognize the people and events that shaped the nation

Explore more than 200 years of history

Steve Wiegand

Award-winning political journalist and history writer

U.S. History

5th Edition

by Steve Wiegand

for
dummies®
A Wiley Brand

U.S. History For Dummies®, 5th Edition

Published by: John Wiley & Sons, Inc., 111 River Street, Hoboken, NJ 07030-5774, www.wiley.com

Copyright © 2025 by John Wiley & Sons, Inc. All rights reserved, including rights for text and data mining and training of artificial technologies or similar technologies.

Media and software compilation copyright © 2025 by John Wiley & Sons, Inc. All rights reserved. All rights reserved, including rights for text and data mining and training of artificial technologies or similar technologies.

Published simultaneously in Canada

No part of this publication may be reproduced, stored in a retrieval system or transmitted in any form or by any means, electronic, mechanical, photocopying, recording, scanning or otherwise, except as permitted under Sections 107 or 108 of the 1976 United States Copyright Act, without the prior written permission of the Publisher. Requests to the Publisher for permission should be addressed to the Permissions Department, John Wiley & Sons, Inc., 111 River Street, Hoboken, NJ 07030, (201) 748-6011, fax (201) 748-6008, or online at <http://www.wiley.com/go/permissions>.

Trademarks: Wiley, For Dummies, the Dummies Man logo, Dummies.com, Making Everything Easier, and related trade dress are trademarks or registered trademarks of John Wiley & Sons, Inc. and may not be used without written permission. All other trademarks are the property of their respective owners. John Wiley & Sons, Inc. is not associated with any product or vendor mentioned in this book.

LIMIT OF LIABILITY/DISCLAIMER OF WARRANTY: THE PUBLISHER AND THE AUTHOR MAKE NO REPRESENTATIONS OR WARRANTIES WITH RESPECT TO THE ACCURACY OR COMPLETENESS OF THE CONTENTS OF THIS WORK AND SPECIFICALLY DISCLAIM ALL WARRANTIES, INCLUDING WITHOUT LIMITATION WARRANTIES OF FITNESS FOR A PARTICULAR PURPOSE. NO WARRANTY MAY BE CREATED OR EXTENDED BY SALES OR PROMOTIONAL MATERIALS. THE ADVICE AND STRATEGIES CONTAINED HEREIN MAY NOT BE SUITABLE FOR EVERY SITUATION. THIS WORK IS SOLD WITH THE UNDERSTANDING THAT THE PUBLISHER IS NOT ENGAGED IN RENDERING LEGAL, ACCOUNTING, OR OTHER PROFESSIONAL SERVICES. IF PROFESSIONAL ASSISTANCE IS REQUIRED, THE SERVICES OF A COMPETENT PROFESSIONAL PERSON SHOULD BE SOUGHT. NEITHER THE PUBLISHER NOR THE AUTHOR SHALL BE LIABLE FOR DAMAGES ARISING HEREFROM. THE FACT THAT AN ORGANIZATION OR WEBSITE IS REFERRED TO IN THIS WORK AS A CITATION AND/OR A POTENTIAL SOURCE OF FURTHER INFORMATION DOES NOT MEAN THAT THE AUTHOR OR THE PUBLISHER ENDORSES THE INFORMATION THE ORGANIZATION OR WEBSITE MAY PROVIDE OR RECOMMENDATIONS IT MAY MAKE. FURTHER, READERS SHOULD BE AWARE THAT INTERNET WEBSITES LISTED IN THIS WORK MAY HAVE CHANGED OR DISAPPEARED BETWEEN WHEN THIS WORK WAS WRITTEN AND WHEN IT IS READ.

For general information on our other products and services, please contact our Customer Care Department within the U.S. at 877-762-2974, outside the U.S. at 317-572-3993, or fax 317-572-4002. For technical support, please visit <https://hub.wiley.com/community/support/dummies>.

Wiley publishes in a variety of print and electronic formats and by print-on-demand. Some material included with standard print versions of this book may not be included in e-books or in print-on-demand. If this book refers to media that is not included in the version you purchased, you may download this material at <http://booksupport.wiley.com>. For more information about Wiley products, visit www.wiley.com.

Library of Congress Control Number: 2025932524

ISBN 978-1-394-32473-6 (pbk); ISBN 978-1-394-32475-0 (ebk); ISBN 978-1-394-32474-3 (ebk)

Contents at a Glance

Introduction	1
Part 1: America's Birth and Toddler Years	5
CHAPTER 1: America: A Short Biography	7
CHAPTER 2: American Indians and Explorers: 21,000 BCE (?) –1607	21
CHAPTER 3: Pilgrims' Progress: The English Colonies, 1607–1700	37
CHAPTER 4: You Say You Want a Revolution: 1700–1775	49
CHAPTER 5: Yankee Doodlin': 1775–1783	65
CHAPTER 6: Blueprints and Birth Pains: 1783–1800	79
Part 2: Growing Pains	91
CHAPTER 7: "Long Tom" and One Weird War: 1800–1815	93
CHAPTER 8: Pulling Together to Keep from Falling Apart: 1815–1844	109
CHAPTER 9: War, Gold, and a Gathering Storm: 1845–1860	129
CHAPTER 10: A Most Uncivil War: 1861–1865	143
CHAPTER 11: Putting the Country Back Together: 1865–1876	157
Part 3: Coming of Age	167
CHAPTER 12: Growing Up: 1876–1898	169
CHAPTER 13: Stepping Up as a World Power: 1899–1918	183
CHAPTER 14: Gin, Jazz, and Lucky Lindy: 1919–1929	197
CHAPTER 15: Uncle Sam's Depressed: 1930–1940	211
CHAPTER 16: The World at War: 1941–1945	225
Part 4: America in Adulthood	241
CHAPTER 17: TV, Elvis, and Reds Under the Bed: 1946–1960	243
CHAPTER 18: Camelot to Watergate: 1961–1974	259
CHAPTER 19: Hold the Malaise, or Ayatollah So: 1975–1992	275
CHAPTER 20: No Sex, Please, I'm the President: 1993–1999	289
Part 5: Nearing Our Semiquincentennial	301
CHAPTER 21: Terror Comes Home; America Goes to War(s)	303
CHAPTER 22: Recessions Can Be Really Depressing	315
CHAPTER 23: Reforming Healthcare Is No Tea Party	327
CHAPTER 24: America Disagrees with Itself	341
CHAPTER 25: Stormy Weather	353
CHAPTER 26: This New America	371

Part 6: The Part of Tens .....	389
CHAPTER 27: Ten Innovations That Made It Easier to Be Lazy .....	391
CHAPTER 28: Ten Events That Helped Shape American Culture .....	397
Part 7: The Appendixes .....	403
APPENDIX A: The Bill of Rights: Amendments 1–10 of the Constitution .....	405
APPENDIX B: The Declaration of Independence .....	409
Index .....	413

Table of Contents

INTRODUCTION	1
About This Book	1
Conventions Used in This Book	2
Foolish Assumptions	3
Beyond the Book	3
Icons Used in This Book	4
Where to Go from Here	4
PART 1: AMERICA'S BIRTH AND TODDLER YEARS	5
CHAPTER 1: America: A Short Biography	7
They Came, They Saw, They Stayed	8
Catching up to the Spanish	8
It's revolutionary!	9
Putting America on the Map	9
Nationalizing a nation	10
Fighting with a neighbor	11
Fighting among ourselves	11
Making up is hard to do	12
Struggling with Greatness	12
Finding a place in the world	13
Roaring through the '20s	13
What's so great about a depression?	14
The big one	14
A Cold War and a Brave New World	15
From a Kennedy to a Ford	15
Good intentions, mixed results	16
Finishing out the century	17
America in the 21st Century	17
Bursting economic bubbles	18
Politics and healthcare are no tea party	18
Stormy times and a new kind of president	18
Climate, COVID, and a capitol clash	19
Changing technology, changing America	19
CHAPTER 2: American Indians and Explorers:
21,000 BCE (?) –1607	21
Coming to America	22
Exploring Early Civilizations	23
The Puebloans	23
The Mound Builders	23

Many Tribes, Not Many People . . . . .	24
In the Northwest . . . . .	24
In the Southwest . . . . .	25
On the Great Plains . . . . .	25
In the Northeast . . . . .	25
In the Southeast . . . . .	26
De-stereotyping the American Indians . . . . .	26
Visiting by the Vikings . . . . .	27
Spicing Up Life — and Other Reasons for Exploring . . . . .	28
Dropping Names of Others Who Dropped By . . . . .	30
The Sword, the Cross, and the Measles . . . . .	31
American Indian slavery . . . . .	32
The men in the brown robes . . . . .	33
Destruction through disease . . . . .	33
Arriving Late for the Party . . . . .	34
France . . . . .	34
England . . . . .	35
 CHAPTER 3: Pilgrims' Progress: The English Colonies, 1607–1700 . . . . .	 37
Seeing Potential in the New World . . . . .	37
Settling in Jamestown . . . . .	38
Early troubles . . . . .	38
Making American Indian friends . . . . .	39
Finding a cash crop . . . . .	39
Instituting Slavery . . . . .	40
Colonizing: Pilgrims and Puritans . . . . .	41
The Mayflower Compact: A Dutch pilgrimage . . . . .	42
The Massachusetts Bay colony: A pure haven . . . . .	43
Bringing Religious Freedom: Dissidents, Catholics, and Quakers . . . . .	44
Sneaking off to Rhode Island . . . . .	45
Collecting Catholics in Maryland . . . . .	46
Promoting tolerance in Pennsylvania . . . . .	46
Dealings of the Dutch . . . . .	46
Differing with the Locals . . . . .	47
 CHAPTER 4: You Say You Want a Revolution: 1700–1775 . . . . .	 49
Looking at America in 1700 . . . . .	50
Colonizing New France . . . . .	50
Fighting the First True World Wars . . . . .	51
King William's War . . . . .	51
Queen Anne's War . . . . .	52
King George's War . . . . .	52

Awakening to Greater Religious Freedom . . . . .	53
The French and Indian War . . . . .	54
Unifying the colonies. . . . .	54
Defeating British General Braddock . . . . .	55
Outfighting the French . . . . .	55
Growing like a Weed . . . . .	56
Accounting for the population explosion. . . . .	56
Living the good life . . . . .	58
Heading Toward Divorce with Britain. . . . .	58
The Proclamation of 1763 . . . . .	59
The Revenue Acts (1764) . . . . .	59
The Stamp Act (1765) . . . . .	60
The Townshend Act (1767). . . . .	60
The Boston Massacre (1770) . . . . .	61
The Boston Tea Party (1773) . . . . .	61
The “Intolerable” Acts (1774) . . . . .	62
Congressing for the First Time . . . . .	63
Mr. Revere, Your Horse Is Ready. . . . .	63
CHAPTER 5: Yankee Doodlin’: 1775–1783 . . . . .	65
In This Corner, the Brits . . . . .	66
In This Corner, the Yanks . . . . .	67
Mr. Washington Goes to War. . . . .	68
Finding faults in George . . . . .	69
Commanding a country . . . . .	69
Declaring Independence . . . . .	70
Stirring up colonists’ emotions . . . . .	70
Writing history . . . . .	71
Cozying Up to the French . . . . .	72
Undergoing Life Changes: The Loyalists and the Slaves . . . . .	73
Remaining loyal to the crown . . . . .	73
Confronting slavery issues . . . . .	74
Winning a War . . . . .	74
Felling a British fort . . . . .	75
Battling over Bunker, uh, Breed’s Hill . . . . .	76
Losing the campaign in Canada . . . . .	76
Nixing plans to take New York. . . . .	76
Winning at Trenton and Princeton . . . . .	76
Making the Brits surrender at Saratoga. . . . .	76
Sparring at sea . . . . .	77
Losing big in Charleston . . . . .	77
Minimizing a loss at Guilford Courthouse . . . . .	77
Turning things around at Yorktown . . . . .	78

CHAPTER 6:	Blueprints and Birth Pains: 1783–1800	79
	Making the Rules	79
	Going back to Philly	80
	Selling the Constitution to the states	82
	Dishing Up Politics, American Style	83
	Washington, the politician	83
	Family feuding: Jefferson versus Hamilton	84
	Raising the Dough	85
	Earning Respect	86
	Shaking things up: Shays’s Rebellion	86
	Taxing liquid corn: The Whiskey Rebellion	87
	Going “mad” over the American Indians	87
	Attempting to censor the press	88
	Finding Foreign Friction	89
	PART 2: GROWING PAINS	91
CHAPTER 7:	“Long Tom” and One Weird War: 1800–1815	93
	Jefferson Gets a Job	93
	Disorder in the Court	95
	Growing by Leaps and Bounds	96
	Capitalizing on Napoleon’s going-out-of-business sale	97
	Lewis, Clark, and the woman on the coin	99
	Fighting Pirates	100
	“To the shores of Tripoli . . .”	100
	No one likes a bloodless war	101
	“Little Jemmy” Takes the Helm	102
	New kids on the block	102
	Fighting the American Indians — again	103
	Why Not Invade Canada This Year?	103
	Three Strikes and the Brits Are Out	105
	Calling It Even	106
	Working on a settlement	106
	Squawking about things in New England	107
CHAPTER 8:	Pulling Together to Keep from Falling Apart: 1815–1844	109
	Embracing Nationalism . . . Sort Of	110
	Taking it to the bank	110
	A tariff-ic idea	111
	This land is my land, but for how much?	111
	Orders from the court	112
	Increasing industry	112

The Slavery Cancer Grows . . . . .	113
Cotton and sugar mean more slaves . . . . .	113
Opposing slavery . . . . .	114
Compromising over Missouri . . . . .	115
Mind your own hemisphere: The Monroe Doctrine . . . . .	116
Mud-Wrestling to the White House . . . . .	117
Adams wins, but Jackson isn't done . . . . .	117
Old Hickory: The Jackson presidency . . . . .	118
Nullify This . . . . .	120
The nullification debate hits the Senate . . . . .	120
A "tarrible" idea . . . . .	121
Bringing down the Bank . . . . .	122
Inventing a Better Life . . . . .	123
Riding the train . . . . .	123
Reaping what you sow . . . . .	124
Communicating across America . . . . .	124
Staking Out New Land . . . . .	125
Pushing out the American Indians . . . . .	125
Claiming independence for Texas . . . . .	126
Changing it up at president . . . . .	127
CHAPTER 9: War, Gold, and a Gathering Storm: 1845–1860 . . . .	129
Wrenching Land from Mexico . . . . .	129
Provoking a war . . . . .	130
Capturing California and the Southwest . . . . .	131
Rushing for Gold . . . . .	132
Risking life and limb to strike gold . . . . .	133
Compromising on the slavery issue . . . . .	134
Coming Over and Spreading Out . . . . .	135
The Germans, the Irish, and the know-nothings who opposed them . . . . .	135
Making waves: The Mormons . . . . .	137
Wagons ho! . . . . .	137
Becoming aware of women's rights (or the lack thereof) . . . . .	138
The Beginning of the End . . . . .	138
Factoring a slave's life . . . . .	139
Battling in Kansas . . . . .	139
Making a "dredful" decision . . . . .	140
Squaring Off for a Showdown: The Lincoln–Douglas Debate . . . . .	141
Spark number 1: John Brown . . . . .	141
Spark number 2: Lincoln's election . . . . .	142

CHAPTER 10: A Most Uncivil War: 1861–1865	143
Introducing Abraham Lincoln	143
Presenting the 16th president	144
Understanding Lincoln's views on slavery and the Union	145
Bending the Constitution to preserve the Union — and win reelection	146
North versus South: Comparing Advantages and Action Plans	147
Freeing the Enslaved	149
Proclaiming emancipation	149
Surveying the consequences of emancipation	150
Reviewing the Troops, the Generals, and the Major Battles	150
The generals	151
The war at sea	151
The war on land	152
“Friendless” Plus “Broke” Equals Losing	154
Losing a Leader	156
CHAPTER 11: Putting the Country Back Together: 1865–1876	157
A Southern-Fried Mess: Life in the South after the Civil War	157
Starting a new life	158
Becoming sharecroppers	158
Piecing the Union Back Together	159
Demanding loyalty, legislating equality	160
Using violence to keep Blacks down	160
The Tailor-Made President: Andrew Johnson	161
Growing Corruption in Politics	163
Riding the railroads to economic ruin	164
Fixing a presidency (and not in a good way)	165
PART 3: COMING OF AGE	167
CHAPTER 12: Growing Up: 1876–1898	169
Heading West in a Quest for Wealth	169
Making money from minerals	170
Making money from animals	170
Making money from vegetables	171
Ousting “Undesirables”	172
Putting up a fight	173
Legalizing discrimination	174
Cramming into Cities	175
Inventing Big Business	176
Building the railroads	177
Manufacturing steel more efficiently	178
Refining (and controlling) oil	178

Getting wired for sound and light . . . . .	179
Forming trusts and striking against them . . . . .	179
Electing a String of Forgettable Presidents . . . . .	180
The Rise of Populism. . . . .	181
“A Splendid Little War” . . . . .	182
CHAPTER 13: Stepping Up as a World Power: 1899–1918 . . . . .	183
Here Today, Guam Tomorrow: Colonizing Spain’s Former Colonies . . . . .	184
Arguing about American imperialism. . . . .	184
Fighting with the Filipinos. . . . .	185
Keeping a high profile in international affairs. . . . .	185
Making a Lot of Noise and Carrying a Big Stick: Roosevelt Takes Office . . . . .	186
Progressing toward Political and Social Reform. . . . .	188
The “muckrakers” expose evil and initiate change. . . . .	188
Improving working conditions — and other people’s drinking habits. . . . .	189
Contracting Labor Pains. . . . .	189
Struggling in a changing workforce . . . . .	190
Initiating improvements to working conditions . . . . .	190
Transporting America . . . . .	191
Suffering for Suffrage . . . . .	192
Leaving the South: Blacks Migrate to Northern Cities . . . . .	193
The War to End All Chapters . . . . .	194
CHAPTER 14: Gin, Jazz, and Lucky Lindy: 1919–1929 . . . . .	197
Pushing for Peace . . . . .	198
Restricting Immigration and Challenging the Natives . . . . .	199
Closing the gate . . . . .	200
Return of the Klan . . . . .	200
Darwin versus God . . . . .	201
Warren, Cal, and Herbert: Republicans in the White House. . . . .	201
Good Times (or Were They?) . . . . .	203
Helping the rich . . . . .	203
Increasing American spending habits . . . . .	203
Making it difficult for the poor. . . . .	204
Ain’t We Got Fun? . . . . .	204
Going to the movies . . . . .	205
Listening to the radio . . . . .	205
Listening to music and writing literature. . . . .	205
Playing games . . . . .	206
Drying Out America: Prohibition Begins . . . . .	206
Changing Morals . . . . .	207
An Age of Heroes. . . . .	208

CHAPTER 15: Uncle Sam's Depressed: 1930–1940	211
The Great Depression: Causes and Consequences	212
FDR: Making Alphabet Soup	214
Electing a reformer	214
Creating hope through a New Deal	216
Packing the Supreme Court	217
Assessing the New Deal	217
Shoving Aside Racial Minorities	218
Keeping Women at Home — or Work	219
Developing Organized Labor	220
Critics, Crooks, and Crime Fighters	221
Huey Long	221
Francis E. Townsend	222
Charles E. Coughlin	222
Bad guys and G-men	222
CHAPTER 16: The World at War: 1941–1945	225
Trying to Avoid War — Again	225
Playing the role of a good neighbor	226
Sensing the unavoidable	227
Gearing Up for War	228
Working with labor unions during wartime	229
Employing women for the war effort	230
Making strides — Blacks achieve greater equality	231
Returning for work after being kicked out — Latinos	232
Treating the Japanese Americans poorly	232
Dealing with the War in Europe	233
Meeting at Yalta	234
Winning one step at a time	234
Beginning the final push	235
Discovering the war's greatest crime	235
Ending the war in Europe, and the end of FDR	236
Dealing with the War in the Pacific	236
Fighting back	237
Turning the tide	237
Dropping the Bomb	238
PART 4: AMERICA IN ADULTHOOD	241
CHAPTER 17: TV, Elvis, and Reds Under the Bed: 1946–1960	243
A Cold War and a Hot "Police Action"	243
Joining the United Nations	244
The world as a chessboard	244
The Berlin airlift	245
The "Miracle of '48"	246

The Korean “Conflict” . . . . .	246
Uncle Sam’s big stick . . . . .	247
Finding Commies under the Bed . . . . .	248
Casting suspicion on Hiss . . . . .	248
Leaking scientific secrets: The Rosenbergs . . . . .	249
Checking the loyalty of federal workers . . . . .	249
Telling tall tales: “Tail-Gunner Joe” . . . . .	250
Having It All . . . . .	250
A booming economy . . . . .	251
Moving to the burbs . . . . .	251
Tuning in to the tube . . . . .	252
Rockin’ ‘n’ rollin’ . . . . .	253
An American king . . . . .	254
Moving Slowly to the Front of the Bus . . . . .	255
Brown against the board . . . . .	255
Boycotting the bus . . . . .	256
CHAPTER 18: Camelot to Watergate: 1961–1974 . . . . .	259
Electing an Icon . . . . .	259
The Bay of Pigs . . . . .	260
Facing the possibility of nuclear war . . . . .	261
A dark day in Dallas . . . . .	261
Sending Troops to Vietnam . . . . .	262
Sinking deeper into a confusing war . . . . .	263
Taking a look at the Tet Offensive . . . . .	263
Increasing Pressure in ‘Nam and Escalating Fears at Home . . . . .	264
Continuing the Fight for Civil Rights . . . . .	265
Enforcing their rights: Blacks . . . . .	266
Challenging the system: Latin Americans . . . . .	267
Maintaining their culture: American Indians . . . . .	268
Entering a Generation in Revolt . . . . .	269
Draft dodging, drugs, and demonstrations . . . . .	269
The rise of feminism . . . . .	269
Coming out of the closet . . . . .	270
Weirdness in the White House . . . . .	270
Making strides: The Nixon administration . . . . .	271
Watching it all fall apart: Watergate . . . . .	271
CHAPTER 19: Hold the Malaise, or Ayatollah So: 1975–1992 . . . . .	275
Wearing Nixon’s Shoes . . . . .	275
Doing the best he could . . . . .	276
Whipping inflation — not . . . . .	277
Good Intentions, Bad Results . . . . .	277
Measuring misery . . . . .	278
Befriending the enemy . . . . .	278

There's a First Time for Everything . . . . .	280
Buying into the "Reagan Revolution" . . . . .	281
Paying for "Reaganomics". . . . .	282
Dealing with foreign affairs . . . . .	283
Warming Up after the Cold War . . . . .	284
Engaging in the Gulf War . . . . .	285
Back on the home front . . . . .	286
CHAPTER 20: No Sex, Please, I'm the President: 1993–1999 . . . . .	289
Bill, Newt, and Monica . . . . .	289
Treading lightly abroad. . . . .	290
Pushing harder on the home front. . . . .	290
Pushing the "Contract with America" . . . . .	291
Judging a president . . . . .	292
Homegrown Terrorism. . . . .	293
Rallying around Ruby Ridge . . . . .	293
Taking down a cult: Waco. . . . .	293
Bombings rock the nation . . . . .	294
Don't open that mail: The Unabomber . . . . .	295
Making Ourselves Sick . . . . .	296
Suffering from AIDS. . . . .	296
Dealing with drugs. . . . .	297
A World of Change. . . . .	297
You've got mail! . . . . .	298
Trading under a global economy . . . . .	298
PART 5: NEARING OUR SEMIQUINCENTENNIAL . . . . .	301
CHAPTER 21: Terror Comes Home; America Goes to War(s) . . . . .	303
The 2000 Bush-Gore Squeaker . . . . .	303
Hanging chads and butterfly ballots. . . . .	304
Post-election scrutinizing . . . . .	305
A Nation Stunned . . . . .	306
Al-Qaeda and Osama bin Laden . . . . .	306
Taking on the Taliban . . . . .	307
Fighting terrorism on the home front . . . . .	308
That Damn Saddam . . . . .	309
Toughening the stance against Iraq . . . . .	310
The U.S. invasion . . . . .	310
Elsewhere in the World . . . . .	312
Winds and Losses . . . . .	313
Big blows in the Big Easy and Texas . . . . .	314

CHAPTER 22: Recessions Can Be Really Depressing	315
Ouch! The Economy Stubs Its Toe	315
Dot-com dreams and investor nightmares	316
The houses that went upside down	316
Brother, Can You Spare a Job?	319
Looking for work. And looking	319
Where the work went	320
“We’re from the Government; We’re Here to Help . . .”	321
Brand new president, same old problems	322
Buying time by buying bonds	323
Did government intervention work?	323
Unspreading the Wealth	325
The rich get richer	325
The blame game	326
CHAPTER 23: Reforming Healthcare Is No Tea Party	327
The Great Presidential Race of 2008	327
Obama versus McCain	328
Obama’s historic victory	328
Lawmaking, Democrat-style	329
Going to a Tea Party	329
Taking over the House	330
Compromising on tax cuts	331
Lurching Toward Healthcare	332
Courting the Supreme Court	334
A stumbling start	335
Clinging to its legislative life	335
And The Decision Is	336
Reelecting Obama in 2012	337
The challenger	337
The race	337
The results	338
Meanwhile, Back at the Budget	338
Hitting the debt ceiling	339
Driving off the fiscal cliff	339
Shutting down the government	340
CHAPTER 24: America Disagrees with Itself	341
Trumped	341
Getting to know a new kind of president	343
Cutting taxes, picking judges, and shutting down the government	343
Changing who’s in charge of the House	344

With Friends Like These . . . . .	346
Putting America first . . . . .	346
Trading insults on trade . . . . .	347
Sorting out friend from foe . . . . .	347
Guns, Drugs, and #MeToo . . . . .	349
Shooting each other at alarming rates. . . . .	349
Black lives matter — and so do cops’. . . . .	350
Dying from drugs. . . . .	350
Confronting sexual harassment . . . . .	352
CHAPTER 25: Stormy Weather . . . . .	353
Forecast: Unsettled . . . . .	353
Revising the Forecast: Getting Worse. . . . .	354
Catching COVID-19 . . . . .	356
Counting COVID’s costs. . . . .	356
Paying the social price . . . . .	357
Responding to COVID, government-style. . . . .	358
Needling the pandemic . . . . .	359
Squeaking Into the White House. . . . .	359
Careening toward the finish line. . . . .	360
Fighting for a “do-over”. . . . .	361
Taking the fight to the courts and states . . . . .	362
“An Assault on America”. . . . .	363
America Reverses Course. . . . .	365
Running on his record . . . . .	366
Running against the calendar . . . . .	367
Handing off to Harris . . . . .	368
Trump triumphant. . . . .	368
CHAPTER 26: This New America . . . . .	371
The Techno Revolution. . . . .	371
Getting the news — real and fake — from new news sources . . . . .	372
Calling all cells . . . . .	373
Socializing and shopping on the web . . . . .	374
Creeping into currency . . . . .	376
Entertaining ourselves, by ourselves . . . . .	377
Using technology to spy, lie, and meddle . . . . .	378
Surfing the “Silver Tsunami”. . . . .	381
Straining Social Security and Medicare . . . . .	381
Stirring the Melting Pot. . . . .	382
Trying to fix the system . . . . .	383
Redefining the American Family . . . . .	385
Changing with the times. . . . .	386
Legalizing gay marriage . . . . .	386

PART 6: THE PART OF TENS	389
CHAPTER 27: Ten Innovations That Made It Easier to Be Lazy	391
The Escalator (1896)	391
Sliced Bread (1928)	392
Pizza Delivery (~1945)	392
Drive-Through Restaurants (1948)	393
TV Remote Controls (1950)	393
Pop-Top Cans (1963)	394
Microwave Ovens (1967)	394
Microwave Popcorn (1983)	395
Global Positioning System (1989)	395
Amazon (1995)	396
CHAPTER 28: Ten Events That Helped Shape American Culture	397
The Publication of Poor Richard's Almanack (1732)	397
The First Performance of The Black Crook (1866)	398
The Opening of the Home Insurance Building (1885)	398
The Advent of the Copyright Act (1909)	399
The Birth of Talking Pictures (1927)	399
The Super Bowl (1967)	400
The Impact of Deep Throat (1972)	400
The Rise of Hip Hop/Rap (early 1970s)	401
The Release of Star Wars (1977)	401
The Opening of Facebook (2004)	402
PART 7: THE APPENDIXES	403
APPENDIX A: The Bill of Rights: Amendments 1–10 of the Constitution	405
APPENDIX B: The Declaration of Independence	409
INDEX	413

Introduction

---

Those who cannot remember the past,” said American philosopher George Santayana, “are condemned to repeat it.”

Generally, in the 12th grade.

Lots of people think of learning U.S. history as a punishment. It’s just a subject you had to take in school. You memorized a bewildering array of dates, absorbed definitions for terms like Manifest Destiny, and wondered whether America really needed two presidents named Harrison. Historical figures were presented as if they were characters in a junior high school costume pageant. Their blemishes were airbrushed out, and their personalities were drained away.

Sure, you were taught George Washington warned the country about foreign entanglements in his “Farewell Address.” But it might have been more interesting to also learn he never actually gave that speech. It was printed in the newspapers. Washington didn’t like giving speeches, partly because of his false teeth, which were not made of wood but at least partially of hippopotamus ivory. Oh, and he was an excellent dancer; after leaving the presidency, he ran a highly successful whiskey distillery.

Alas, textbooks often overlook the fascinating moments and details of U.S. history. They present it as something dry and distant — events, facts, trends, movements — and don’t focus on what it really is. U.S. history is the story of people: what they thought, did, and tried to do; what they ate and drank; what made them angry; and what made them laugh.

About This Book

---

This book is not a textbook, nor is it an exhaustive encyclopedia covering everything that ever happened in the United States. Instead, it focuses on people: famous and infamous, well-known and obscure. It gives you a basic foundation of information about U.S. history. You can use it as a handy reference. Haul it off the shelf to settle an argument, such as which President Harrison came first William Henry or Benjamin. Or, you can use it to start your own argument, say, over whether there really was an “Uncle Sam, and whether he really was a meat packer.

Which brings me to this acknowledgment: This is not a straight-down-the-middle, -100-percent objective book. Sorry, there ain't no such thing. I have tried to stick to facts or at least the version most widely accepted by reputable historians. But the bottom line is that my personal thoughts about which facts to include and leave out, as well as my own biases and interpretations, inevitably intrude. It's happened in every book ever written. Sorry. If you think something is factually wrong, please let me know. If you just don't agree with something, feel free to object. You're reaffirming one of the best things about being an American: having the right to freely express indignation.

Because U.S. history hasn't always been bright and shining, especially when it comes to topics such as slavery or the treatment of Native Americans, this book doesn't always deal with pleasant or uplifting subjects. Some of what you read may anger you, sadden you, or even make you feel a little ashamed. In that regard, America's history shares something in common with just about every country that ever existed.

But the truth is that overall, America's story is a positive one, even an uplifting one for the rest of the world now and in the future. For a nation in its third century, America still does a whole lot of things right. One of them is recognizing past mistakes and generally — and sometimes gradually — striving to do better.

Enough time on the soapbox. I'm also happy to report you can find things in this book that you won't find in other U.S. history books (which may or may not be a good thing, depending on your sense of humor or taste for trivia). Although they may be of little importance in the overall scheme of things, they're kind of fun to know — and trot out at dinner with your boring in-laws. Here are some examples: the Civil War general whose name helped popularize a common term for prostitutes (Joseph Hooker), which canned meat product helped win World War II (Spam), and which future president once accused a political opponent of being “pink right down to her underwear” (Richard M. Nixon.) And if you're a history purist, I think there's a mention of Manifest Destiny in here somewhere.

Conventions Used in This Book

To help you find your way around in the book, I use the following conventions:

- » Italics are used both to emphasize a word to make a sentence clearer and to highlight a new word that's being defined.
- » Bold highlights keywords in bulleted lists.

Foolish Assumptions

I'm assuming you picked up this book because you have some interest in U.S. history (which is why the folks at John Wiley & Sons chose the title). But it doesn't matter if you know a little or a lot about the subject. I think you may enjoy it either way, even if it's just to settle arguments about the Louisiana Purchase (Chapter 7) or what Iceland had to do with the Great Recession (Chapter 22). Enough facts are in here to make this a good (if I do say so myself) basic U.S. history book and enough trivia to irritate party guests who won't go home.

Beyond the Book

You got more than you bargained for when you bought this book. In addition to what you're reading right now, this product also comes with a free access-anywhere Cheat Sheet that puts scads of facts about U.S. history at your fingertips. You'll be able to make substantive points in discussions about politics, impress potential employers as a well-rounded individual, and convince people you actually remember something from 11th grade. To get this Cheat Sheet, simply go to www.dummies.com and search for "U.S. History For Dummies, 5th Edition Cheat Sheet" in the Search box.

You also get access to online practice tests. To gain access to the online practice, all you have to do is register. Just follow these simple steps:

1. Go to www.dummies.com/go/ushistoryfd5e.
2. Create a new account or log in to an existing account.

If you create a new account, you'll receive an email confirmation. Click through to finish creating a new account.

Note: If you do not receive a confirmation email after creating your account, please check your spam folder before contacting us through our Technical Support website at <http://support.wiley.com> or by phone at 877-762-2974.

3. After you've logged into your new or existing account, select "Dummies" under the "Select the brand for your product" header.
4. Select the book title from the drop-down list.
5. Answer a validation question about the product, and then click "Redeem."

REMEMBER

You must choose the correct book title and edition from the drop-down list.

Now you're ready to go! You can come back to the practice material as often as you want — simply log on with the username and password you created during your initial login.

Your registration is good for one year from the day you redeem your product.

Icons Used in This Book

Throughout the book, you can find icons in the margins or alongside boxed sidebars that alert you to particular aspects or features of history. Here's what they mean:

TECHNICAL STUFF

The names, numbers, and other stats behind the news are the focus of this icon.

REMEMBER

This icon alerts you to a fact or idea that you may want to stash in your memory bank.

TIP

The Tip is a small piece of expert advice that will save you time.

Where to Go from Here

Congratulations! By reading this far, you've already learned something about U.S. history: It doesn't always bite, induce deep comas, or poke you in the eye with a sharp stick. Read a few more pages, and you may get the itch to keep going even further.

Remember, history is the story of people.

And people are the most interesting story of all.

1

America's Birth and Toddler Years

IN THIS PART . . .

The first Americans — and the late-coming Europeans — make their way to a new land.

The English colonies establish themselves.

The American Revolution leads to the creation of a new kind of country.

IN THIS CHAPTER

- » Tracing America's roots
- » Establishing a national identity
- » Dealing with growing pains
- » Fighting wars of a different kind
- » Facing the new millennium

Chapter 1

America: A Short Biography

Long before it was a nation, America was an idea, a dream. It didn't exist as anything but a blank slate waiting to be filled. Eventually, it was filled with people who came for all sorts of reasons and with all sorts of ideas on how to assemble a country. Sometimes, the ideas and the people clashed. But out of the clashes and struggles grew a country founded on a system of government that made it unique in the world.

America was lucky to have great leaders in bad times when it most needed them. It had abundant natural resources, generally peaceable neighbors, and plenty of room to grow. And boy, did it grow. But before all this could happen, someone had to transform it from a fantasy to a very real place. This chapter gives you the low-down on how that came about and directs you to the places in the book that give you the nitty-gritty in more detail.

They Came, They Saw, They Stayed

The first Americans probably wandered over from Asia about 14,000 years ago, maybe a lot longer. Either way, it was, in geologic terms, an eye-blink ago. Over the succeeding four or five millennia, they spread out over the North and South American continents.

There weren't a lot of these first Americans, at least not in what became known as the United States of America, but they were wildly diverse in their customs and culture. Many of the differences had to do with the environment in which they settled. Around AD 985, Northern Europeans, popularly known as Vikings, showed up on the North American continent, sticking around only long enough to irritate the Native Americans.

But two things — imagination and greed (not necessarily in that order) — prodded other Europeans into taking their place. Looking for a new route to the riches of the East (particularly spices), explorers such as an Italian weaver's son named Christopher Columbus thought they might sail west around the globe until they hit Asia. Of course, the Americas got in the way. Rather than reverse course, Columbus and his counterparts refocused their priorities on exploring and exploiting the New World.

The exploiting part included enslaving or killing off the native population. Sometimes, the killing was deliberate; sometimes, it was inadvertent by introducing diseases for which the Native Americans had no defenses. See Chapter 2 for more details on Native Americans and explorers.

Catching up to the Spanish

Spain got a head start in the Americas, mainly because it was the first to get enthusiastic about exploring this New World. But other European countries eventually sought to catch up. France split its efforts between colonizing and just carting off resources like fish and furs. However, the English took steps to make their presence more permanent.

English settlements were founded for both economic and ecclesiastical reasons. In the South, colonists hoped to make money by growing tobacco and, later, cotton. To make their enterprises more profitable, they imported slaves from Africa. It was a practice that would prove far costlier in terms of human misery than the crops were ever worth monetarily.

In the North, settlers who had fled religious persecution established colonies based more on religious principles than making a buck (although they weren't averse to the latter). Like the Spanish, English settlers often found the easiest way to deal with the Native Americans was to shove them aside or kill them. The English colonies grew rapidly. Chapter 3 has the stories of Pilgrims, Puritans, and entrepreneurs.

It's revolutionary!

It was probably of small comfort to the Native Americans, but the French and British also spent an inordinate amount of time killing each other. Throughout much of the 18th century, the two nations squared off in a series of wars that were fought in both Europe and the New World. When the dust settled, Britain had cemented its position as the top dog among the European powers in North America. But a new power — whose members increasingly called themselves Americans — was beginning to assert itself. See Chapter 4 for the details.

Stung by slights — both real and imagined — from the mother country, American colonists grew restless under British control. In 1776, after a series of provocations and misunderstandings, the colonies declared themselves independent. The American Revolution took seven years for the colonists to win. To do so took a brilliant leader in George Washington, a timely ally in France, and healthy helpings of tenacity and luck. Chapter 5 has the lowdown on what's basically the birth of the USA.

Making a country out of the victorious colonies also took tenacity, luck, and genius. Over the summer of 1787, a remarkable group of men gathered in Philadelphia to draw up the rules for the new nation. The United States of America elected Washington as its first president, set up a reasonable financial system, and avoided war with European countries long enough to get itself established. All these events are in Chapter 6.

Putting America on the Map

Thomas Jefferson was a great example of America finding the right man at the right time. He helped the country make a smooth transition from one political party being in charge to another. Plus, he had the imagination to pull off a pretty big land deal — the Louisiana Purchase. That not only doubled the size of the country, it gave Lewis and Clark a good reason for an expedition. Meanwhile, the U.S. Supreme Court asserted itself as a co-equal branch of government. That's all in Chapter 7, along with fighting pirates and getting into another war with Great Britain.

Nationalizing a nation

The end of the War of 1812 also marked the fading of the Revolution generation. People increasingly began to identify themselves as Americans rather than New Yorkers or Virginians. But it wasn't the end of tensions among sections of the country when their interests diverged. Those divergent issues included fights over banking, tariffs — and especially slavery.

With the invention of the cotton gin, growing the fiber became quite profitable in the South. Along with a surge in growing sugar, the region became intensely dependent on slave labor. Many people in Northern states opposed slavery for a variety of moral, political, and economic reasons. A fight over the question of allowing slavery to spread was avoided, at least temporarily, with a fragile compromise in 1820.

Beyond its borders, the United States was increasingly alarmed by European nations who were thinking about grabbing former Spanish colonies in Latin America that had recently gained their independence. In 1823, Pres. James Monroe formally warned Europe to keep its hands off the Americas.

Not all the political squabbling was international. In 1824, a crusty military-man-turned-politician, Andrew Jackson, lost a hotly contested and controversial election to John Quincy Adams. In 1828, Jackson avenged the loss after one of the sleaziest campaigns (by both sides) in U.S. history. As president, Jackson found himself confronted by a theory called nullification, which held that states could decide for themselves which federal laws they did and did not have to obey. The theory served to deepen the divide between North and South.

Despite a national recession brought on by speculation and shady financial dealings, Americans were busy coming up with ways to make life better. Improvements in equipment triggered a boom in railroad building. The development of steel plows and rolling harvesters greatly enhanced grain production, and the invention of the telegraph signaled the start of a national communications medium.

Meanwhile, American expatriates in Texas led a successful revolt against Mexico and then waited for nine years to become part of the United States. The annexation of Texas, in turn, helped start another war. Chapter 8 covers this and much more.