

A COMPANION TO

FILM
NOIR

EDITED BY ANDREW SPICER AND HELEN HANSON

WILEY Blackwell

Contents

List of Illustrations

Notes on Contributors

Acknowledgments

Foreword

Introduction

An International Genre?

What is Film Noir?

Redefining Film Noir: Cultural Contexts

Redefining Film Noir: Social and Industrial Contexts

The Fabric of Film Noir: Style and Subjectivity

The Noir Mediascape

The Success of Film Noir

Notes

Part I Conceptualizing Film Noir

1 The Strange Case of Film Noir

A “Radical Aesthetic Break”

A Distinct Cluster of Films

Sociocultural Trauma

Notes

2 Genre, Hybridity, Heterogeneity

The Lures of the Hybrid
History and Heterogeneity
Notes

3 A Wet Emptiness

The Lid and the Works
Gulf City
Night For Day
Notes

4 Cinephilia and Film Noir

Loving Film Noir
Cinephilia as a Phenomenon
The Invention of Film Noir
The Noir Collector
Notes

Part II Hidden, Hybrid, and Transmedia Histories and Influences

5 Precursors to Film Noir

Pre-Code Precursors
Returning Veterans: The Forgotten Men of World War I
Warren William: Rogue of Pre-Code
Love Is a Racket: The Tough Sexual Politics of Pre-Code Noirs

Acknowledgment
Notes

6 Crisscrossed?

Introduction
Film Noir and France
Film Noir and Germany
Film Noir: Europe and Hollywood
Le Jour se lève and The Long Night
Lured and Pièges
Conclusion
Notes

7 Film Noir and Horror

Introduction
1930s' American Horror and the Noir to Come
1940s' American Horror and Noir
Conclusion
Notes

8 Borderings

Dark Passage: Stranger on the Third Floor
Institutional Truth-Telling: Southside 1-1000
Acknowledgment
Notes

9 Crime Fiction and Film Noir

The Initial Broad and Undifferentiated Public: Gangster Fiction

The First Counterpublic: Detective Fiction
Second Counterpublic: Sex and Cynicism
Third Counterpublic: Irrationality and Psychosis
Fourth Counterpublic: Connoisseurship, Iconicity, and Intertextuality
Notes

10 Film Noir, American Painting and Photography

American Art I: The Ashcan School
American Art II: Reginald Marsh and Edward Hopper
Photography
Conclusion
Notes

Part III Social, Industrial, and Commercial Contexts

11 The Politics of Film Noir

Introduction
Political Noir
Abraham Polonsky
Joseph Losey
Jules Dassin
Cy Endfield
Robert Rossen
Conclusion

Notes

12 The Black Typewriter

Introduction

Who Wrote the Film?

The Hard-Boiled Influence

Women Write Noir

Film Noir and the Blacklist

Conclusion

Notes

13 Film Noir and Studio Production Practices

“Early” Film Noir: Outside and Inside the Studio System

Film Noir Production During the War Years

The Exhibition of Films Noir: Noir’s Place on the Double Bill

Films Noir Production on Poverty Row

Noir Production at the End of the Studio Era and the Rise of the Independents

Notes

14 Film Noir and Post-Studio Production Practices

Introduction

Neo-Noir and New Hollywood

Neo-Noir in the Era of the Blockbuster

Neo-Noir, Independent Production, and the Video Rental Boom

Commodifying Neo-Noir: Direct-to-Video Companies

Conclusion

Notes

15 Selling Noir

Introduction: Contexts, Codes, and Conventions

Gilda: Object of Contemplation, Desiring Subject, Woman being Beaten

Double Indemnity: You Can't Kiss Away a Murder!

Masculinity in Murder, My Sweet: From Juvenile to World-Weary

Out Of The Past: A Guy Without a Future

Notes

Part IV The Fabric of Film Noir: Style and Performance

16 Out of the Shadows

Noir Lighting and Film Technology

The Moods of Noir

Precision Effects

Glamorous and Grotesque

Conclusion

Acknowledgments

Notes

17 The Ambience of Film Noir

Introduction: Tones of Noir

Sound in the Studio Era: Technological and Industrial Contexts

The Development of Sound Conventions

Footsteps in the Dark: Pacing through the City Soundscape

Spaces and Moods: Nitery Singers in the Noir Nightclub

Listening in the Dark: Points and Patterns of Audition

Audition and Alienation: Point of Audition in Neo-Noir in the 1970s

Enveloped in the Dark: Noir Surround Sound

Conclusion

Acknowledgments

Notes

18 In a Lonely Tone

The Orchestral Score and Film Noir

Jazz and Film Noir

New Approaches and Murder by Contract

Notes

19 Acting and Performance in Film Noir

Screen Performance

Diegetic Performance

Social Performance

Conclusion

Notes

Part V Identities and Film Noir

20 Film Noir and Subjectivity

Cultural and Aesthetic Contexts: Noir and Modernism

Noir Form: the Aesthetics of Subjectivity

Film Noir and Neo-Noir: Modernist and Postmodernist Subjectivity

Notes

21 Women in Film Noir

Critical Perspectives on Women in Film Noir

Women in American Film Noir

Women in Neo-Noir

Notes

22 “The Corpse on Reprieve”

The Problem of Men: The War, the Return, the Diagnosis

Reclaiming the Guilty Past

Film Noir as Talking Cure

Conclusion

Notes

23 Ethnicity and Race in American Film Noir

The Shared History of Race and Ethnicity

Bogie's Noir Stance on Race and Ethnicity
Ethnicity in Classic Film Noir
Race in Classic Film Noir
Race in Neo-Noir
Ethnicity in Neo-Noir
Noir Ambivalence about Race and Ethnicity
Acknowledgments
Notes

24 The Climb and the Chase

The Dark City of Noir
Sleepless
Sweat Gleams at Night
Noir of the Soul
Conclusion
Notes

Part VI Noir in Other Forms

25 Radio Noir in the USA

Introduction: Critical Background and Neglect
Radio Programming - Adaptations
Crime Programming on Radio
Formal Differences Between Radio and Film
The Aesthetics and Sensational Appeal of Radio
Noir
The Decline of Radio Drama
The Importance of Radio Noir
Notes

26 Television Noir

Noir Wars and Paradigm Cases

Out of Our Past

Moral Ambiguity

Noir et Blanc in Color

Sunshine Noir

Television Auteurism and Miami Vice

Crime Story

The Equalizer, Stingray, Wiseguy

Mixed Genre Series

The End of Noir?

Conclusion

Acknowledgments

Notes

27 “It Rhymes with Lust”

Notes

Part VII New Geographies of Film Noir

28 Film Noir in Asia

Postwar South Korean Cinema and Black Hair

The Policier, Korean-Style: The Last Witness

Conclusion

Notes

29 Bombay Noir

Bombay Noir and Gangsters
Serial Killers and Media Classics
Johnny Gaddaar: Counterfeiting Noir
Conclusion
Acknowledgment
Notes

Index

A Companion to Film Noir

Edited by

Andrew Spicer and Helen Hanson

WILEY Blackwell

This edition first published 2013
© 2013 Blackwell Publishing Ltd

Blackwell Publishing was acquired by John Wiley & Sons in February 2007. Blackwell's publishing program has been merged with Wiley's global Scientific, Technical, and Medical business to form Wiley-Blackwell.

Registered Office

John Wiley & Sons, Ltd, The Atrium, Southern Gate,
Chichester, West Sussex, PO19 8SQ, UK

Editorial Offices

350 Main Street, Malden, MA 02148-5020, USA

9600 Garsington Road, Oxford, OX4 2DQ, UK

The Atrium, Southern Gate, Chichester, West Sussex, PO19
8SQ, UK

For details of our global editorial offices, for customer services, and for information about how to apply for permission to reuse the copyright material in this book please see our website at www.wiley.com/wiley-blackwell.

The right of Andrew Spicer and Helen Hanson to be identified as the authors of the editorial material in this work has been asserted in accordance with the UK Copyright, Designs and Patents Act 1988.

All rights reserved. No part of this publication may be reproduced, stored in a retrieval system, or transmitted, in any form or by any means, electronic, mechanical, photocopying, recording or otherwise, except as permitted by the UK Copyright, Designs and Patents Act 1988, without the prior permission of the publisher.

Wiley also publishes its books in a variety of electronic formats. Some content that appears in print may not be available in electronic books.

Designations used by companies to distinguish their products are often claimed as trademarks. All brand names and product names used in this book are trade names, service marks, trademarks or registered trademarks of their respective owners. The publisher is not associated with any product or vendor mentioned in this book.

Limit of Liability/Disclaimer of Warranty: While the publisher and author(s) have used their best efforts in preparing this book, they make no representations or warranties with respect to the accuracy or completeness of the contents of this book and specifically disclaim any implied warranties of merchantability or fitness for a particular purpose. It is sold on the understanding that the publisher is not engaged in rendering professional services and neither the publisher nor the author shall be liable for damages arising herefrom. If professional advice or other expert assistance is required, the services of a competent professional should be sought.

Library of Congress Cataloging-in-Publication Data

A companion to film noir / edited by Andrew Spicer and Helen Hanson.

pages cm

Includes bibliographical references and index.

ISBN 978-1-4443-3627-6 1. Film noir--History and criticism. I. Spicer, Andrew, 1953-

II. Hanson, Helen.

PN1995.9.F54C725 2013

791.43'655--dc23

2013006413

A catalogue record for this book is available from the British Library.

Cover image: Telephone © 12 Tribes / iStockphoto; Hat © DNY59 / iStockphoto; Scene from Timetable 1956, photo United Artists / Kobal Collection; Background © Adam Smigielski / iStockphoto

Cover design by Simon Levy Design Associates

List of Illustrations

- 3.1 Sam Spade (Humphrey Bogart) inspects the broken railing at the edge of the crime scene in The Maltese Falcon
- 3.2 Karrer (Miklós B. Székely) challenges a stray dog in Damnation
- 6.1 Film noir's double image: François (Jean Gabin) and his trapped reflection in Le Jour se lève
- 6.2 Film noir's double image: Joe (Henry Fonda) and his trapped reflection in The Long Night
- 10.1 George Bellows's The Street
- 15.1 Gilda (Rita Hayworth) pleads with Johnny (Glenn Ford), alternative image
- 16.1 Tony Gaudio uses small lamps and shallow focus for this shot from High Sierra
- 16.2 Lee Garmes uses one powerful arc lamp to create the shadow on the back wall in Nightmare Alley
- 16.3 Cinematographer Arthur Edeson employs a crisp style for The Maltese Falcon
- 16.4 A lamp effect with a moderate amount of fill in Nightmare Alley
- 16.5 In Nightmare Alley, lighting suggests that the lamp in the background is unusually dim
- 16.6 Sidney (Tony Curtis) under the flat lighting of fluorescents, in Sweet Smell of Success
- 16.7 A flattering three-quarter key-light for Angela (Marilyn Monroe) in The Asphalt Jungle
- 16.8 Two side-lights provide harsher modeling on Dix's (Sterling Hayden's) face, associating tough masculinity with the conspicuous absence of glamour in The Asphalt Jungle
- 19.1 Interiority and exterior expression: Joan Crawford in Sudden Fear
- 19.2 Exoteric and esoteric performance in The Blue Dahlia: William Bendix and Alan Ladd
- 21.1 Elsa Bannister's (Rita Hayworth) associations with Asian culture suggest a splicing of geographic and moral mobility in The Lady From Shanghai
- 21.2 Bree Daniels (Jane Fonda) is figured as both emancipated and threatened by modern urban life in Klute
- 22.1 A secretary helps her boss navigate the noir world: Lucille Ball and Mark Stevens in The Dark Corner
- 22.2 A police detective cannot control his violence against an equally aggressive ex-GI: Dana Andrews and Craig Stevens in Where the Sidewalk

Ends

- 22.3 An amnesiac veteran searches an unsympathetic American urban landscape for clues to his pre-war identity: John Hodiak in Somewhere in the Night
- 22.4 Mark Dixon needs to talk but he cannot remember his purpose: Gene Tierney and Dana Andrews in Where the Sidewalk Ends
- 23.1 Andrew Morton (Humphrey Bogart) listens respectfully to Jim “Sunshine” Jackson (Robert Davis) as Juan (Pepe Hern) looks on sympathetically in Knock on Any Door
- 23.2 Deckard (Harrison Ford) surrounded by “Oriental” otherness during the market sequence in Blade Runner
- 26.1 Sonny Crockett (Don Johnson) and Ricardo Tubbs (Philip Michael Thomas) in Miami Vice
- 26.2 Dexter Morgan (Michael C. Hall) at his day job in Dexter
- 27.1 Cover image of It Rhymes with Lust by Arnold Drake, Leslie Waller, and Matt Baker
- 28.1 Jang Dong-hwi (man holding knife) as a gang boss in Lee Man-hee’s Black Hair
- 28.2 Moon Jeong-sook as a femme fatale in Black Hair
- 28.3 Lee Doo-yong’s The Last Witness
- 28.4 Detective Oh’s (Ha Myung-joong) hunt for the truth and the murderer turns into an investigation of history
- 29.1 Poster for Johnny Gaddaar
- 29.2 Vikram’s preferred reading in Johnny Gaddaar
- 29.3 Prakash playing with chance in Johnny Gaddaar

Notes on Contributors

John Berra is a lecturer in Film Studies at Nanjing University. Author of Declarations of Independence: American Cinema and the Partiality of Independent Production (2008), editor of the Directory of World Cinema: American Independent (2010/2012) and the Directory of World Cinema: Japan (2010/2012), and coeditor of World Film Locations: Beijing (2012), he has also contributed essays to The End: An Electric Sheep Anthology (2011), World Film Locations: New York (2011), and World Film Locations: New Orleans (2012) as well as articles to Asian Cinema and Science Fiction Film and Television. His research on American Independent Cinema has focused on the importance of cultural capital to filmmakers operating on the fringes of the industrial mainstream, with an emphasis on how this status is assimilated through film festivals, niche marketing strategies, and the development of new distribution platforms.

Mark Bould is Reader in Film and Literature at the University of the West of England and coeditor of the journal Science Fiction Film and Television. He is the author of Film Noir: From Berlin to Sin City (2005), The Cinema of John Sayles: Lone Star (2009), and Science Fiction: The Routledge Film Guidebook (2012), coauthor of The Routledge Concise History of Science Fiction (2011), and coeditor of Parietal Games: Critical Writings By and On M. John Harrison (2005), The Routledge Companion to Science Fiction (2009), Fifty Key Figures in Science Fiction (2009), Red Planets: Marxism and Science Fiction (2009), and Neo-Noir (2009). He is an advisory editor to Extrapolation, Historical Materialism, Paradoxa, and Science Fiction Studies.

David Butler is Senior Lecturer in Screen Studies at the University of Manchester. He is the author of Jazz Noir: Listening to Music from "Phantom Lady" to "The Last Seduction" (2002), Fantasy Cinema: Impossible Worlds on Screen (2009) and the editor of Time And Relative Dissertations In Space: Critical Perspectives on Doctor Who (2007). His research interests include the use of jazz in film, the relationship between music and image, and the portrayal of the fantastic on screen.

Corey K. Creekmur is an associate professor of English and Film Studies at the University of Iowa, where he also directs the Institute for Cinema and Culture. He recently coedited Cinema, Law, and the State in Asia and The International Film Musical and contributed an essay on Jacques Tourneur to Film Noir: The Directors. His teaching and research interests include American film genres, popular Hindi film, and comics.

Wheeler Winston Dixon is the James Ryan Professor of Film Studies, Coordinator of the Film Studies Program, Professor of English at the University of Nebraska, Lincoln, and Editor in Chief, with Gwendolyn Audrey Foster, of the Quarterly Review and Film and Video. His newest books are Streaming: Movies, Media and Instant Access (2013) and Death of the Moguls: The End of Classical Hollywood (2012), 21st Century Hollywood: Movies in the Era of Transformation (with Gwendolyn Audrey Foster; 2011), and A History of Horror (2010). His website, Frame by Frame, can be found at blog.unl.edu/dixon/, and a series of videos by Dixon on film history, theory, and criticism, also titled Frame by Frame, are available at <http://mediahub.unl.edu/channels/105>.

Dan Flory is Associate Professor of Philosophy at Montana State University, Bozeman and author of Philosophy, Black Film, Film Noir (2008). In 2007–2008 he was Visiting Associate Professor of Philosophy at the American University in Cairo. His publications include many essays on philosophy, film noir, and critical race theory, including “Black on White: Film Noir and the Epistemology of Race in Recent African-American Cinema,” “The Epistemology of Race and Black American Film Noir: Spike Lee’s Summer of Sam as Lynching Parable,” “Race, Empathy, and Noir in Deep Cover,” and “Spike Lee and the Sympathetic Racist.” He has served twice as guest editor for the journal Film and Philosophy, and he is currently working on a book about the emotions, race, and philosophical reflection. His most recent work is Race, Philosophy, and Film, coedited with Mary K. Bloodsworth-Lugo (2013).

Christophe Gelly is a professor at the Université Blaise Pascal, where he teaches English and American literature and film studies. He has published a book-length study on Chandler, Raymond Chandler – Du roman noir au film noir (2009), as well as several articles on Conan Doyle, Joseph Conrad, and film adaptations of nineteenth-century novelists. He currently specializes in film noir theory and adaptation studies.

Lalitha Gopalan is an associate professor in the Department of Radio-Television-Film and affiliate faculty in the Department of Asian Studies and South Asia Institute at the University of Texas at Austin. Her research and teaching interests are in the areas of Film Theory, Feminist Film Theory, Contemporary World Cinemas, Indian Cinema, Genre Films, and Experimental Film and Video. She is the author of Cinema of Interruptions: Action Genres in Contemporary Indian Cinema (2002) and Bombay (2005) and editor of Cinema of India (2010); she also sits on the editorial boards of Camera Obscura: Feminism, Culture, and Media Studies and Film Quarterly. She has served on several film festival juries and she is a member of the advisory board of 3rd I Film Festival, San Francisco. She recently co-curated the film series “Cruel Cinema: New Directions in Tamil Film.”

Henrik Gustafsson is a film scholar and postdoctoral fellow with the research project “Border Culture” at the University of Tromsø. His book Out of Site: Landscape and Cultural Reflexivity in New Hollywood Cinema, 1969-1974 (VDM 2008) is an interdisciplinary study on popular film, fine arts, and cultural memory. Together with Asbjørn Grønstad, he has edited the volumes Ethics and Images of Pain (Routledge 2012) and (forthcoming from Continuum) Cinema and Agamben: Ethics, Biopolitics and the Moving Image. Recent publications include “Foresight, Hindsight and State Secrecy in the American West: The Geopolitical Aesthetics of Trevor Paglen” in Journal of Visual Culture and chapters in various books, including The Films of Claire Denis: Intimacy on the Border (I.B. Tauris 2013), Urban Images: Unruly Desires in Film and Architecture (Sternberg Press 2011), Imaging History: Photography After the Fact (ASA Publishers 2011), and The San Francisco of Alfred Hitchcock’s Vertigo: Place, Pilgrimage, and Commemoration (Scarecrow Press 2011).

Helen Hanson is Senior Lecturer in Film Studies at the University of Exeter and the Academic Director of the Bill Douglas Centre for the History of Cinema and Popular Culture. She is the author of Hollywood Heroines: Women in Film Noir and the Female Gothic Film (2007) and the forthcoming Hollywood Soundscapes: Film Sound Style, Craft and Production 1931-1950 as well as being coeditor (with Catherine O’Rawe) of The Femme Fatale: Images, Histories, Contexts (2009) and (with Ian Gardiner and Jay Beck) of the journal Music, Sound and the Moving Image.

Mary Beth Haralovich is a professor in the School of Theatre, Film & Television at the University of Arizona in Tucson, where she teaches film and television history. Her studies of Hollywood film promotion focus on the heterosexual imperative of film posters, the value of diverse female images to film promotion, and the implementation of film promotion in local US film markets. Her work-in-progress is Marked Women: Local Promotion of 1930s "Scandalous Woman" Films. Her publications include studies on Marked Woman (1937) and other 1930s' proletarian women's films, heterosexual flirtation in the promotion of A Free Soul (1931), the challenges for US promotion of Marlene Dietrich's Blonde Venus (1932), and the promotion of Mildred Pierce (1946) as murder mystery. In addition, she has written on 1940s' A and B Sherlock Holmes film series, films of 1950, color in Douglas Sirk melodrama, 1990s' masculine star images of Tom Hanks and Tom Cruise, and the film social history method. In television studies, she has published on masculinity and war veterans in Magnum, p.i. (1980-1988) and geo-politics of civil rights in I Spy (1965-1968). Her essay on 1950s' suburban family comedies has been reprinted many times. Haralovich serves on the editorial board of Feminist Media Studies for University of Illinois Press, is coeditor of Television, History, and American Culture: Feminist Critical Essays (1999), and is a founder of the International Conference on Television, Video, New Media, Audio and Feminism: Console-ing Passions.

Peter Hutchings, Professor of Film Studies at Northumbria University, Newcastle upon Tyne, is the author of Hammer and Beyond: The British Horror Film (1993), Terence Fisher (2002), The British Film Guide to Dracula (2003), The Horror Film (2004), and the Historical Dictionary of Horror Cinema (2008) as well as being coeditor - with Joanne Hollows and Mark Jancovich - of The Film Studies Reader (2000). He has also published numerous journal articles and book chapters on horror cinema, British film and television, science fiction cinema and television, and the thriller.

Patrick Keating is an assistant professor in the Department of Communication at Trinity University in San Antonio, where he teaches courses in film and media studies. He is the author of Hollywood Lighting from the Silent Era to Film Noir (2010), which won the Best First Book Award from the Society of Cinema and Media Studies. He is editing a book of essays on the history of Hollywood cinematography and working on a manuscript about camera movement and the representation of modern space. The latter project has received a grant from the Academy Film Scholars program. Recent publications include essays on the film theorist Rudolf Arnheim, the Mexican cinematographer Gabriel Figueroa, and the structure of Hollywood narrative. He holds a PhD in Film Studies and an MFA in Film Production.

Nikki J.Y. Lee holds a PhD in Cultural Studies from Goldsmiths College, University of London. She is a lecturer in Asian Media at Nottingham Trent University. Her research interests cover transnational East Asian film genres, stars, and industries with a focus on South Korean cinema. She has published several articles on Korean films and directors, including “Localized Globalization and a Monster National: The Host (2006) and the South Korean Film Industry,” in Cinema Journal. She is coeditor of a forthcoming volume, The Korean Cinema Book (British Film Institute/Palgrave Macmillan).

James Lyons is Senior Lecturer in Film Studies at the University of Exeter. He is the author of Selling Seattle (2004) and Miami Vice (2010) and coeditor of Quality Popular Television (2003), Multimedia Histories: From the Magic Lantern to the Internet (2007), and The Rise of the American Comics Artist: Creators and Contexts (2010).

William Marling is Professor of English at Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland, Ohio. In addition to many articles and chapters in collections, he is the author of How "American" Is Globalization? (2006), The American Roman Noir (1997), Raymond Chandler (1988), Dashiell Hammett (1985), and William Carlos Williams and the Painters (1983). He has been a distinguished foreign Chair in Spain, France, Austria, Japan, and Lebanon.

Geoff Mayer is a reader and associate professor at La Trobe University, where he is Head of the School of Communication, Arts and Critical Enquiry. He teaches Film History and Film Genre. He is author of Film as Text (1991), Media Studies: Narrative, Audience, Values and Process (1991), the Guide to British Cinema (2003), Roy Ward Baker (2004), and the Historical Dictionary of Crime Films (2012), coauthor of New Australian Cinema: Sources and Parallels in American and British Film (1992) and Encyclopedia of Film Noir (2007), and he is coeditor of The Oxford Companion to Australian Film (1999) and The Cinema of Australia and New Zealand (2007). He also contributed a chapter on the American director Joseph H. Lewis to Film Noir: The Directors (2012), edited by Alain Silver and James Ursini. Geoff was a consultant and on-camera film historian on the 2011 documentary Stunt Love. This film traced the remarkable Hollywood career of Australian-born director, actor, writer, and producer J.P. McGowan and the films he made with his American wife, actor Helen Holmes. He is currently writing a critical and historical dictionary of the action film from 1912 to 2012 with particular emphasis on the film serial and serial form.

Brian Neve teaches politics and film at the University of Bath. He is author of Elia Kazan: the Cinema of an American Outsider (2009) and Film and Politics in America: a Social Tradition (2000), and he is a coeditor of “Un-American Hollywood”: politics and film in the Blacklist era (2007). He is a member of the editorial board of the Journal of American Studies. His book on the life and film work of Cy Endfield is forthcoming from Wisconsin University Press.

R. Barton Palmer is Calhoun Lemon Professor of Literature at Clemson University, where he also directs the Global Cultural Studies as well as the Cinema and Cultural Studies programs. Palmer is the author, editor, or general editor of more than forty volumes on various film and literary subjects. Among his numerous publications on film noir are: Hollywood’s Dark Cinema: The American Film Noir (1994), Perspectives on Film Noir (1996), and Joel and Ethan Cohen (2004).

Donna Peberdy is a senior lecturer in Film and Television Studies at Southampton Solent University. Donna’s research interests include acting and performance, masculinity and sexuality in American cinema. She is the author of Masculinity and Film Performance: Male Angst in Contemporary American Cinema (2011) and coeditor of Tainted Love: Screening Sexual Perversities (2013). Subjects of recent articles and chapters in contributed volumes include acting in Wes Anderson’s films (New Review of Film and Television Studies), Tom Cruise and the performance of bipolar masculinity (Men & Masculinities), Michael Douglas’s “ordinary” masculinity (Pretty People: Movie Stars of the 1990s), Sean Penn and the performance of homosexuality (Millennial Masculinity: Men in Contemporary American Cinema), celebrity autoerotic asphyxiation and playing with the self (Celebrity Studies), speech affectations (Film Dialogue), and film acting in the 1980s and 1990s (Behind the Silver Screen: Acting).

Alastair Phillips is Reader in Film Studies in the Department of Film and Television Studies, University of Warwick. His research interests lie in the fields of international film history, culture, and aesthetics with special emphasis on French and Japanese filmmaking; histories of exile and emigration within Europe and between Europe and Hollywood; and the representation of place and landscape in historical and contemporary world cinemas. His books include Rififi: A French Film Guide (2009), and (with Jim Hillier) 100 Film Noirs (2007). He has recently coedited (with Ginette Vincendeau) A Companion to Jean Renoir (2013).

Murray Pomerance is a professor in the Department of Sociology and Director of the Media Studies Working Group, at Ryerson University. He is the author of Michelangelo Red Antonioni Blue: Eight Reflections on Cinema (2011), The Horse Who Drank the Sky: Film Experience Beyond Narrative and Theory (2008), Johnny Depp Starts Here (2005), An Eye for Hitchcock (2004), and Ludwig Bemelmans: A Bibliography (1993). Forthcoming are Hitchcock's America (Polity Press) and The Eyes Have It: Cinema and the Reality Effect (Rutgers), as well as an edited volume, The Last Laugh: Strange Humors of Cinema and the coedited Hollywood's Chosen People: The Jewish Experience in American Cinema (both Wayne State). He has edited and coedited numerous books including A Family Affair: Cinema Calls Home (2008), City That Never Sleeps: New York and the Filmic Imagination (2007), Cinema and Modernity (2006), American Cinema of the 1950s: Themes and Variations (2005), A Little Solitaire: John Frankenheimer and American Film (2011), From Hobbits to Hollywood: Essays on Peter Jackson's Lord of the Rings (2006), Where the Boys Are: Cinemas of Masculinity and Youth (2005), and Sugar, Spice, and Everything Nice: Cinemas of Girlhood (2002).

Robert Porfirio received a MA in Film from UCLA and completed his doctorate at Yale University with his seminal dissertation, The Dark Age of American Film, in 1979. He is a coeditor of Film Noir: The Encyclopedia (2010) and Film Noir Reader 3 (2002) and has contributed to the other three volumes in the Film Noir Reader series. He also contributed to The Noir Style (1999) and wrote the foreword to The Philosophy of Film Noir (2007). He was formerly assistant professor of American Studies at California State University, Fullerton, where he taught the first accredited course in film noir beginning in 1973. Porfirio recently returned to Southern California after three years in southern France.

Tom Ryall is Emeritus Professor of Film History at Sheffield Hallam University. His books include Anthony Asquith (2005), Britain and the American Cinema (2001), and Alfred Hitchcock and the British Cinema (1996). He has contributed various articles on British and American cinema to collections such as Film Noir: The Directors (2012), A Companion to Hitchcock Studies (2011), The British Cinema Book (2009), The Cinema of Britain and Ireland (2005), The Oxford Guide to Film Studies (1998), and he has written for journals such as Screen, Sight and Sound and the Journal of Popular British Cinema.

Steven Sanders is Emeritus Professor of Philosophy at Bridgewater State University. He has written numerous articles on film noir including "Sunshine Noir: Postmodernism and Miami Vice," in Mark T. Conard (ed.), The Philosophy of Neo-Noir (2007) and "Something More Than Noir," in Steven Rybin and Will Scheibel (eds), Going Home: Essays on Nicholas Ray in Cinema Culture (SUNY Press, forthcoming). He has edited three volumes in The Philosophy of Popular Culture series published by the University Press of Kentucky, including The Philosophy of Science Fiction Film (2008), and he coedited The Philosophy of TV Noir (2008) (with Aeon J. Skoble) and The Philosophy of Steven Soderbergh (2011) (with R. Barton Palmer). He is the author of the chapter on Orson Welles in Film Noir: the Directors (2012) and four entries in Film Noir: the Encyclopedia (2010). He has published a monograph on Miami Vice (2010) and is coeditor, with Aeon J. Skoble and R. Barton Palmer, of Michael Mann and Philosophy (forthcoming). He is currently coediting, with R. Barton Palmer, a selection of interviews with filmmaker Michael Mann and completing what he calls “a memoirist’s novel.”

Jesse Schlotterbeck is an assistant professor of Cinema at Denison University. His work on film noir also appears in M/C – A Journal of Media and Culture, the Journal of Adaptation in Film and Performance, and Film Noir: The Directors (2012).

Andrew Spicer is Reader in Cultural History in the Faculty of Arts, Creative Industries and Education at the University of the West of England where he is Director of Research. He has published widely on British cinema and on film noir; he is author of works including Film Noir (2002), Typical Men: The Representation of Masculinity in Popular British Cinema (2003), Sydney Box (2006), the Historical Dictionary of Film Noir (2010), and editor of European Film Noir (2007). He is coauthor of The Man Who Got Carter: Michael Klinger, Independent Production and the British Film Industry, 1960–1980 (2013) and coeditor of Beyond the Bottom Line: The Producer in Screen Studies (Continuum, forthcoming), and he is preparing a monograph on Sean Connery for “The Film Stars” series (BFI/Palgrave Macmillan, forthcoming).

Julian Stringer is Associate Professor in Film and Television Studies at the University of Nottingham. He has published widely on East Asian cinema and is coeditor, with Chi-Yun Shin, of New Korean Cinema (2005) and, with Alastair Phillips, Japanese Cinema: Texts and Contexts (2007). He recently organized a conference on Moving Images and the Digital Eco-City at ZED pavilion, Shanghai Expo (October 2010), and acted as joint organizer of a conference (with Tsinghua University) on film and television in the 3D age at the China National Film Museum, Beijing (January 2011). He is currently working (with Nikki J.Y. Lee) on The Korean Cinema Book for the British Film Institute/Palgrave Macmillan.

Gaylyn Studlar is David May Distinguished Professor in the Humanities and Director of the Program in Film & Media Studies at Washington University in St Louis. She has also taught at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor and Emory University. She is the author of Precocious Charms: Stars Performing Girlhood in Classical Hollywood Cinema (2013), This Mad Masquerade: Stardom and Masculinity in the Jazz Age (1996), and In the Realm of Pleasure: Von Sternberg, Dietrich, and the Masochistic Aesthetic (1992) as well as being the coeditor of four volumes and author of over three dozen articles. Her numerous essays on Hollywood film include “Double Indemnity: Hardboiled Film Noir,” in Film Analysis (2005) and “A Gungel is Being Beaten: Gangster Masculinity and the Homoerotics of the Crime Film, 1941-1942,” in Mob Culture: Hidden Histories of the American Gangster Film (2005).

Yvonne Tasker is Professor of Film Studies and Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Humanities at the University of East Anglia. Her publications include Soldiers' Stories: Military Women in Cinema and Television since WWII (2011), Working Girls: Gender and Sexuality in Popular Culture (1998), and Spectacular Bodies: Gender, Genre and the Action Cinema (1993). Her edited collections include: Fifty Contemporary Film Directors (2001), Action and Adventure Cinema (2004), and, with Diane Negra, Interrogating Postfeminism: Gender and the Politics of Popular Culture (2007). Her anthology (coedited with Diane Negra) entitled Gendering the Recession is forthcoming with Duke University Press.

David Wilt is a professorial lecturer in Film Studies at The George Washington University and a Systems Librarian at The University of Maryland Libraries. He is the author of Hard Boiled in Hollywood: Five "Black Mask" Writers and the Movies (1991) and The Mexican Filmography, 1916-2001 (2004) and the coauthor of Doing Their Bit: Wartime American Animated Films, 1939-1945 (1987, revised edition 2004) and Hollywood War Films 1937-1945 (1996). He has also contributed chapters to Mondo Macabro (1997), The Columbia Companion to American History on Film (2004), Film and Comics (2007), and Latsploitation, Latin America, and Exploitation Cinema (2009). His primary research interests include the sociopolitical context of popular culture, Mexican cinema, film history, and paracinema.