About the Authors

Ed McCarthy and Mary Ewing-Mulligan have written several For Dummies books on wine, including the bestselling Wine For Dummies and two of their favorites, French Wine For Dummies and Italian Wine For Dummies. They recently added California Wine For Dummies to their repertoire as well. They've taught hundreds of wine classes, visited nearly every wine region in the world, run five marathons, and raised 12 cats. Along the way, they've amassed more than half a century of wine experience between them.

Ed, a New Yorker, graduated from the City University of New York with a master's degree in psychology. He taught high school English in another life, while working part time in wine shops to satisfy his passion for wine and to subsidize his growing wine cellar. In 1999, Ed went solo as author of Champagne For Dummies, a topic on which he's especially expert. He's contributing editor to Beverage Media, a trade publication.

Mary is president of International Wine Center, a New York City school for wine professionals and serious wine lovers. As U.S. director of the Wine & Spirit Education Trust (WSET), the world's leading wine-education organization, she works to make the courses she offers in New York available in more parts of the United States. She's also a freelance wine writer. Mary's most impressive credential is that she was the first female Master of Wine (MW) in the United States and currently is one of only 26 MWs in the United States. (with 277 MWs worldwide). Both Ed and Mary are also columnists for the online wine magazine WineReviewOnline.com and are Certified Wine Educators.

Maryann Egan is the wine writer for donna hay magazine, a leading food magazine in Australia. She's also the author of Australian and New Zealand Wine For Dummies. Maryann holds a degree in Oenology (more commonly known as wine science) and has worked at several wineries, including the Yarra Valley's Wantirna Estate and Domaine Chandon's Yarra Valley operation.

Tony Aspler is the most widely read wine writer in Canada. He's recognized as the leading authority on Canadian wines and is the creator of the annual Air Ontario Wine Awards competition. Formerly the wine columnist for the Toronto Star, Tony coauthored Canadian Wine For Dummies and is the author of many other books on wine and food.

Barbara Leslie is the former publisher of Winetidings, Canada's oldest continually published wine magazine. Over the course of a 15-year career with the magazine, she did just about everything from tasting wine to writing and editing to typesetting and layout. Barbara is coauthor of Canadian Wine For Dummies.
