Acknowledgements

Writing this Master's Thesis was sometimes hard and challenging as I had to cope with many, previously unknown, fields of academic research and also because this topic is relatively new and unexplored. Nevertheless, I experienced a lot of support and help from many sides, which pushed me forward and gave me the necessary motivation. This work marks the end of my studies at the University of Maastricht. This work is the final product, the final outcome of five years of studies, and I can state with sound confidence that these were the best years of my life. I made a lot of friends; I spent an unforgettable study abroad in Argentina; I had great company in my student houses; and I learned a lot.

First, I want to thank my supervising Professor, Prof. Dr. Hans van Mierlo, for his help and support during the research and writing process. Further, I want to thank Mrs. Silvia Skorzik, Mrs. Ilse Stadlmann and Mr. Christophe Volkaert from the European Commission's Interactive Policy Making team for providing me with valuable insights on the working processes and outcomes of the Commission's public online engagement efforts.

I want to thank my parents, Georg and Grazyna, for their help and support during the five years of my studies. Their love motivated me to overcome setbacks and gave me the necessary endurance when times were hard. Thanks also to my brother, Michael, for his company and the great ideas he provided me with during the writing process.

Furthermore, I want to thank my beloved friends, who always stood on my side. Thank you Toni, Phil, Marek, Scheipsche, Felix, Alpha, Jana, Isa and Elisa for being there for me. Although we might part soon, I will never forget you all.
